Keynote Of Fargo Event

Special to The Commercial Appeal

FARGO, Ark., Feb. 15.—With the motto, "More Food and Less Credit, More Work and Less Talk," the 18th annual Negro Farmers Conference opened Thursday and will close Friday at the Fargo Agricultural School here.

Many white and negro farm leaders will appear on the program to emphasize the importance of getting away from one-crop farming.

Among topics to be discussed are:

1. Do you co-operate with the farm and home agents?
2. Do you encourage your children to be thrifty and honest?
3. Do you take your children into your planning and farm accounts?
4. Do you get up your wood in the Summer?
5. Do you use your money for the things you borrowed it for?
6. Do you co-operate with your neighbors?
7. Do you attend the Annual Negro Farmers' Conference?
8. The importance of having a good pump

Some of the speakers who will appear on the program are: H. C. Ray, negro district farm agent, Little Rock; Ed McCustian, supervisor, negro schools, State Department of Education, Little Rock; N. D. Early, planter, Brinkley; J. C. McAdams, vocational supervisor negro agent, A. M. & M. College, Pine Bluff; J. W. Mason, negro farm agent, Crittenden County, Marion Ark.; A. C. Smith, Monroe County farm agent, Clarendon; Theo Bond, planter and merchant, Madison; President M. L. Harris, president Thilander Smith College, Little Rock; O. L. Person, supervisor health clinic, Cotton Plant; Henry Espy, contact AAA representative, Little Rock, Ark.

Three meritorious farm certificates will be awarded to three farmers who have made the greatest contribution to the farm program.
